

Declaration of Ecclesiastical Property Rights

I, jonathan-daniel: clements, a living man and sovereign executor of the Ecclesiastical Sovereign Living Trust, do hereby declare my lawful and rightful claim to all property, assets, vehicles, land, and materials titled in my private name,
in trust, or under any lawful private agreement.

This includes but is not limited to:

- Any land or dwelling I inhabit or hold claim to
- Any mode of transportation or conveyance in my possession
- Any tools, instruments, or means of livelihood

All property held by the trust is:

- Ecclesiastical in nature
- Private and non-commercial
- Protected from seizure, taxation, or licensing by foreign powers

Sealed in private ecclesiastical authority. No witness required.

Declaration of Family Protection under Trust

This declaration affirms that all living men, women, and children under the care, guardianship, and fellowship of jonathan-daniel: clements shall be protected under the Ecclesiastical Sovereign Living Trust.

This protection includes:

- Ecclesiastical jurisdiction over education, medicine, and life care
- Rebuttal of any state guardianship or wardship claims
- Protection from statutory intrusion, forced medical treatments, or indoctrination

No public institution shall claim dominion or authority over those privately covered by this trust.

Sealed in private ecclesiastical authority. No witness required.

Declaration of Trust-Based Commerce

This document affirms that any commerce, trade, barter, or service offered by or through jonathan-daniel: clements shall be conducted under private ecclesiastical contract through the Ecclesiastical Sovereign Living Trust.

I am not engaged in regulated commercial activity. I do not consent to being taxed, licensed, registered, or interfered with for acts of private trade, goodwill, or support of living men and women.

Commerce under this trust is:

- Private, sacred, and voluntary
- Exempt from public jurisdiction or regulation
- Governed by conscience, not code

Sealed in private ecclesiastical authority. No witness required.
